Read the following paragraph thoroughly, then answer questions that follow after it.

Birds are very beautiful and interesting creatures. They differ in many forms. They differ in colour, size, the kind of food they eat and are also different in their general behaviour and characteristics. Birds range in size from a five centimeter bee-humming's birds to 2.75 meters ostrich. Birds' diet vary and often include nectar, fruits, plants seeds and various small animals including other birds. Some kinds of birds travels thousands of kilometers from one continent to another in search of food and better areas for laying their eggs and raising their chicks.

The ostrich is the largest bird in the world. A grown up ostrich can weigh up to 156 kilograms, probably the weight of five standard five pupils. An ostrich has wings but it does not fly. It uses its wings to balance itself during high speed run. The ostrich has the largest eyes than those of any land animal. Each eye can be up to five centimeter in diameter.

Different people keep bird at home. The birds we keep at home are called domestic birds. They are used as a source of food and income. Hens and ducks can give us eggs and meat.

LISTENING SKILL

Once upon a time, there was a king. He lived in a place with his beautiful daughter and wife. His wife, the Queen, fell sick and died a few years later. The Princess was very lonely after her mother's death. She looked for something to comfort herself. So, she developed a habit of walking alone in the palace garden. In the evening she loved picking flowers and watching birds.

One evening, the princess decided to go for a walk. She said to her father, "I am going to pick flowers in the garden". She went to the garden and started picking the flowers. After she had finished, she continued to walk around. The palace garden was very close to the forest. From the distance, the Princess saw flowers in the forest, which she had never seen before. She remembered that her father had warned her against getting into the forest. But the flowers were so beautiful that she went further and further into the forest to pick them. She stayed in the forest until it became dark. Suddenly, a group of men captured her.
