Early January this year, my fellow pupils and I had a chance to go to the Amani Radio Station. We wrote a letter to request visiting this radio station one month earlier. On the day of the visit, we arrived at the radio station at 8:30 am. It was in a big, beautiful, neat and attractive building. It also has a large reception hall .For the first time , I saw the announcer's room where the news is read.It was soundproof .I also saw the recording room. Many pupils from different schools came to participate in the discussion on the topic" The Rights of a child." This programme was broadcast in the presence of an invited audience. Our school was represented in the main panel by a boy called Enock. Pupils from other schools gave their views first . Then it was Enock's turn to say something .He said," We as children are human beings too. so,our rights are as important as anyone else's rights. The difference is that we are not as experienced or knowledgeable as adults. We have the right to choose what we want to study. we need freedom of speech, freedom to move from one place to another, and other rights. However, many adults complain that children lack the ability to make wise decision. This may be true, but there's one thing I would like to ask from our parents and guardians. Please, do us a favour and ensure that our ability to make wise decisions is well developed." Everybody stood up and clapped for about two minutes. He was the best speaker and was given a trophy and an English textbook. He was also shown on TV in the 8 o'clock news .It was the best day for all of us. The whole school was proud of Enock.
