Question 1(viii) has no option that both uses ordinary-perception hear correctly and meets the instruction for ongoing aspect; the best grammatical choice is explained. Question 6(ii) uses clearly identified example event details.

Section A — Objective questions

1(i). Majengo watches a football match. What is he?

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: A spectator watches; a referee officiates and strikers and defenders play.

Final Answer: D — Spectator.

1(ii). What form item asks about the country to which a person belongs?

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: Nationality identifies a person's national affiliation. Marital status concerns marriage.

Final Answer: B — Nationality.

1(iii). Neema is east of a ball, and Baraka sees that ball to his south. In which direction is Baraka from Neema?

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: Put the ball at the centre. Neema is east of it and Baraka north of it, so travelling from Neema towards Baraka goes north and west.

Final Answer: B — North-West.

1(iv). What is negotiating a discount with a shopkeeper called?

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: Bargaining is negotiating price; requesting and asking are broader activities.

Final Answer: D — Bargaining.

1(v). Anna likes reading, and her mother does too. How should the mother reply?

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: For agreement with a positive present-simple statement, use so + auxiliary do + subject I.

Final Answer: D — So do I.

1(vi). Replace “Women are inferior” with its lexical opposite.

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: Superior is the antonym of inferior. This answers a vocabulary task and does not endorse a ranking of people.

Final Answer: C — Women are superior.

1(vii). What does having enough money to buy a new car mean?

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: Enough describes sufficient means, which expresses ability rather than a definite future purchase.

Final Answer: C — He is able to buy a new car.

1(viii). Choose the correct “hear” sentence intended to show an ongoing activity.

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: Hear in the sense of perceiving sound normally takes the simple form. “We are hearing them singing”, “He is hearing what you say” and “I am not hearing you” are inappropriate ordinary-perception forms here.

Final Answer: A — I hear noises from outside, is the grammatical ordinary-perception sentence. No option correctly supplies the requested ongoing-action form.

Study Tip: A is the best grammatical option, but the instruction asking for an ongoing activity is inconsistent with the choices.

1(ix). Why is “an hour” correct but “an university” incorrect?

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: Hour begins with a vowel sound because h is silent; university begins with the consonant sound /j/, so it takes a.

Final Answer: A — Use a before a consonant sound and an before a vowel sound.

1(x). Which explanation for Taifa Stars' poor results is presented as a fact rather than speculation?

Step 1: Read the situation and identify the meaning or grammatical rule being tested.

Step 2: The other choices are qualified by probably, could or likely. C is phrased as a definite assertion; the question supplies no evidence proving the real sporting cause.

Final Answer: C — The statement directly attributes the result to an inadequate preparation budget.

2(i). Match the occupation: A person caring for people's teeth.

Step 1: Match the duties to the occupation's definition.

Step 2: A dentist treats teeth and oral problems.

Final Answer: D — Dentist.

2(ii). Match the occupation: A person writing books.

Step 1: Match the duties to the occupation's definition.

Step 2: An author creates written works.

Final Answer: E — Author.

2(iii). Match the occupation: A person connecting and repairing electrical equipment.

Step 1: Match the duties to the occupation's definition.

Step 2: An electrician works with electrical installations.

Final Answer: G — Electrician.

2(iv). Match the occupation: A person building with stones or blocks.

Step 1: Match the duties to the occupation's definition.

Step 2: Masonry is construction using bricks, stones or blocks.

Final Answer: F — Mason.

2(v). Match the occupation: An office worker handling correspondence, calls, typing, records and meetings.

Step 1: Match the duties to the occupation's definition.

Step 2: These administrative duties describe a secretary.

Final Answer: B — Secretary.

Section Summary: Distinguish a statement's grammatical certainty from evidence that it is true. Articles depend on sound, and stative perception verbs usually use simple forms.

Section B — Language use

Section C — Reading programme

10. Using two prescribed readers, explain three bad habits from each and why people should avoid them.

Step 1: Plan three distinct habits per reader, identifying the character showing each.

Step 2: For Mabala use laziness, wastefulness and stubbornness; explain the practical harm of each. For Selemani use jealousy, gender prejudice and controlling conduct.

Step 3: Develop each point into explanation and advice. Finish by connecting the two texts to a shared lesson.

Final Answer: Model response:

Bad habits can harm individuals, families and the wider community. Mabala the Farmer and Hawa the Bus Driver, both by R. S. Mabala, show why people should examine their conduct.

In Mabala the Farmer, Mabala's laziness prevents him from treating farming as sustained work. People should avoid this habit because crops and other responsibilities cannot succeed through wishes alone. His wastefulness also weakens the family's resources. Careful spending would leave more for necessities and future plans. His stubbornness makes useful advice seem like an insult. Listening to experienced people would help him correct mistakes and improve his work.

In Hawa the Bus Driver, Selemani's jealousy makes his wife's success a source of tension. People should avoid jealousy because another person's achievement can benefit the whole family. His prejudice against women's capabilities also discourages Hawa. Judging workers by their skill would permit more people to contribute to society. Finally, his attempt to control her employment disregards her contribution and choice. Cooperation and discussion would create a fairer partnership than restricting a capable person. These readers encourage responsible work, sensible use of resources, willingness to learn and respect for others. Rejecting the six habits would strengthen both personal relationships and community development.

Study Tip: This is an independently written model essay. Other relevant habits or prescribed readers can receive credit when supported with accurate textual examples.

Section Summary: A literature essay needs the requested number of distinct points, character evidence and an explanation of the lesson each point offers.
